

14 March 1934

COPY

The man called Legendemain is the most mysterious man on this expedition, he acts as translator and gangmaster for the expedition. However, I sense he has his own agenda, whatever that may be.

He's just a little too slick to be what he pretends to be. Well, that's his business. I tried to get to know him a little, but he was reticent and claimed not to know English well enough. But I have seen him speaking quietly with Sir William in English, and he doesn't seem to have any trouble.

Well, it's getting late and I don't want to miss the departure! Seriously, I have butterflies in my stomach. I'll take some Landanum.