I talked to my therapist today. I didn't let him know any ~~thg~~ about Contact ect. I'm worried about just what he may be involved in - what I may be involved in. Selling children as lab rats?

I think it would be best if start seeing another therapist, one I know I can trust. I am certain that I should do that now.

Sally and I had a meeting today. She doesn't seem to be a "person of interest" though. It's only tactile hallucinations, bugs crawling ^{under} on her skin. Drug tests showed nothing, but I've given her a placebo I hope might help me figure out... something. I follow up next week.
