

June 2nd, 2003

I began seeing my newest patient, Karen Baudelaire. I do not know for certain, but she seems to be a special child.

She seems to have the same hallucinations that Adam did, according to what Karen's parents have told me. Delusions of an imaginary friend, but otherwise fairly normal. She seems fairly paranoid though, not so much what she says, but her body language.

I do feel as if there's something in my head that I'm missing though. Something I can't quite recall that happened during the session. I'm afraid to listen to my recording though. Something tells me I shouldn't.

there are bite marks on my arm... why?

no, I don't want to know. I don't.