

November 26th, 2003

I am having a very slow time gathering these children. No one has shown up yet. I had almost convinced myself it was a dream. That Adam and Karen were nothing but poor children, just like the rest of them were. Just children.

Then I remember the pain in my chest, the poor movement in my leg and arm... No, this actually happened.