

To my baby girl, the love of my life:

If you are reading this then you must have questions. Rest easy in the fact that there are answers. You won't get them all at once, but you will get what you need when you need it. I know what it means to spend a lifetime searching. Understand that you are not alone. One day you will find the exit, and you will walk through that door and feel victorious. Maybe even one day, we can be together again. But don't worry; I will always leave that up to you, wherever you are, when and if you can contact me.

Just when you thought you were safe, just when you thought nothing bad would ever happen to you, the visions came. All I ever wanted to do was protect you from the visions. But if you are reading this letter than I have failed to protect you. Now you will have to protect yourself.

My hope is that you will see this as a gift and blessing, but I fear that just like me, you will see it as a curse. I wish you all the luck in the world.

I'm sending you to see Rainflower. She will help you. Trust her.

Love always, P.
