Dear Sir,

We are in search of contact and address information for the following chat nickname "cyberjoek" on an Internet Relay Chat server for collectivedetective.org. We hope after many attempts we have found the correct person using this nickname. Per the instructions in the package that dates back to the original founders of our law firm, we are legally bound to try and deliver this information to you. Over the years we've had to copy the information from different mediums to the one we are sending to you today.

Our information technology support group has assured us that you should have no problem listening to these files. If you do please contact us immediately and we will try and reformat the files for listening.

Please do not contact us for information regarding this client, as we do not have any information for public consumption.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads "Stephen Lake". The signature is written in black ink and is positioned above the typed name and title.

Stephen Lake
